Magical girl v2V20. Im Sorry to say that at lest on my rig that THIS GAME SUCKS!

The reasons are as follows, 1 there is no way that I could see to change the conrtols on the keybord.

2. there is no tutorial as to how to play ether the campan, or the survivl mode.

3. There is no way "at lest from what I could see" to learn how to play this game, because half the time when you start the first level you ether get hit by a rock distroying your ship or the screen just goes black, and you can't see.

So in short this game could be a lot of fun, but it still needs a lot of work.. This is absolutely the best video game ever. Get rid of all your other games, now.. NovaLogic <3. Can't even bring myself to finish this Past it outright being an incomplete PC game with general mapping issues (you can't map\u2665\u2665\u2665\u2665\u2665\u2665to a controller or change keys and they're placed in unintuitive areas), the game is just not fun to play.

This is supposedly an HD remake of a title released on the Nintendo DS in 2009. Ironically a straight up lazy port of the Nintendo DS version would have been better than what we got. Instead the PC version is an enhanced remake of what was a remake of a Commodore 64 game, albeit they stopped halfway through it and decided to release it as is.

This is an unfinished game. It's playable, but clearly unfinished. Even with what you can play it's really not all that hot. It's a very basic mario rip-off from the era of platformers. The subsequent games in this small franchise are leagues better, and the only reason I could recommend this is as a historical piece. Even then I'd just tell you to get the DS version on an emulator.. Whether it was the cheesy dialogue or the terribly controls, I just couldn't get in to it. It's something to do with motorbikes with saws for wheels? And robots?

Best I can describe it is like an endless runner but in short 5 minute stints with motorbikes. Maybe something worth your time but I couldn't get in to it. Could also be because it's 1am but that's by the by. It didn't sell itself to me I'm afraid. Classic time management game. Cute graphics and story.. if you are ruski this game is good meme if you are normie americano gameplay is still addicting and fun. Game itself is fairly good. However the unlock system ruins it. Three of the four campaigns are locked till you beat the previous one. You can't win the campaign at first because Battleships and Carriers are locked until you hit a certain level, as are the best weapons.

Someone took a good game and tried to artificially extend it. Not worth grinding through unless you have a lot of patience.

This game is underrated. The gameplay is very enjoyable. Highly recommended.. Highly recommended. I have gotten many hours of entertainment out of the whole Shooter series. Not a lot of variation, and each game is basically like the other in the series, but it's always fun to shoot wave after wave of grotesque monsters for a few hours.. The Game is great for Lan or local co-op playing its very good for a indie game shooter i love it

It has 0 glitches
cheap
fun

its pretty fun and simple

. Very Good but Part two Scenario does not give you enough time to finish to achieve the final destination on time! a run time issue from programming or development issue I'm sure an update would sort it out! I know this as I have completed them all already! I can understand why there is a 25% discount, probably this is the reason!. The best Heroes of all Heroes. A cute little adventure game, 15 minutes of gameplay, easy 100% achievement completion.. Such a solid idea. And believe me, I love asymmetrical multiplayer VR games. This was a pretty fun one to play for about 5 minutes... that is until it's many, many glitches started to show. One hero-controller (sometimes more, sometimes all) will stop performing functions for periods at a time. The game itself pauses very frequently. 2/5, fix the bugs it's a 4.. i can't find how to get the legendary item, and the "Azar" Champion that make me can't Complete my achievements list that fell terrible and also we need chinese please~
